

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

HISTORY

MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.

In presenting a brief history of the Association, we cannot help remarking the increased facilities at present afforded for moral and intellectual development to all classes in the community, and especially to young men.

When we contrast the Schools, Lyceums, and Libraries of the present day, with the scanty and imperfect means of education possessed by our predecessors, we have great reason for gratitude to those who have furnished these privileges; and a heavy responsibility rests upon us rightly to improve them.

Among the many useful institutions with which our city abounds, there is none, perhaps, which exerts a more powerful and favorable influence than this Association. This will at once be apparent, when it is recollected that its members have opportunities for debate, declamation, and composition, access to the newspapers of the day, and all the periodical literature of this country and England, and a large and well-selected Library.

The record of the events connected with its formation and progress necessarily presents few items of interest to any but its members; and is only valuable as an incentive to other institutions to imitate the perseverance and energy of its founders.

The first meeting was held at the Commercial Coffee House, on the 11th of March, 1820, and was composed principally of merchants' clerks. It was voted unanimously that immediate measures be taken to establish a Library and Reading Room for the use of young men engaged in mercantile pursuits; and Messrs. Theodore Lyman, Jr., J. G. Gibson, Samuel A. Otis, N. A. Barrett, Thomas Gorham, James T. Blanchard, Lynde M. Walter, Charles J. Johnson, Edward Codman, Henry A. Davis, and Samuel W. Pomeroy were appointed a committee of organization, thus forming the first association of the kind in the United States.

This committee proceeded at once to the duties assigned them, by procuring suitable rooms in Merchants' Hall, Congress Street. A Constitution was subsequently adopted, of which the principal features were, that no person in business for himself, should be allowed a voice in its affairs; the age necessary for membership to be not less than fifteen years; the terms of admission an annual assessment of two dollars, and the presentation of a book upon signing the Constitution.

For the ensuing fifteen years, the Institution progressed very slowly, accomplishing, however, its object, though subject to frequent reverses, resulting partly from a want of interest among the members, but mainly from a deficiency of pecuniary means. Indeed, at times, it appeared as if the whole scheme would be entirely abandoned, and it was chiefly owing to the active exertions and untiring zeal of a few devoted friends, that its existence was maintained.

In 1835, to remedy this difficulty, an appeal was made to the merchants, and seven hundred dollars were at once subscribed towards a permanent fund. This liberal act infused new spirit into the members; numerous accessions were made to their numbers, and the elocution class was established. This last measure exerted a most favorable influence in promoting the prosperity of the Association.

On the 11th of March, 1836, the sixteenth anniversary was celebrated by an address from G. W. Tyler, Esq.

On the 20th of June following, a severe calamity was experienced in the destruction, by fire, of the cabinet of curiosities, and several valuable paintings. Many of the books were also very much injured by water.

This unexpected event, instead of producing discouragement, incited the members to renewed exertions. At a meeting called for consultation, forty-two pledged themselves to introduce one hundred and fifty new associates within three months, or pay into the treasury the amount of their assessments. Spacious and convenient rooms were at once obtained in School Street, the want of which had long been felt, and had always been no slight obstacle to the progress of the Institution.

The seventeenth anniversary was celebrated by an address from Mr. Isaac C. Pray, Jr., and a poem by Mr. A. L. Stimson.

We cannot forbear mentioning a most interesting incident, which occurred at this time, showing the good feeling which existed among the members. One of the most active members died, leaving his family in indigent circumstances. Through the influence of Mr. Edward Stearns, a prominent member, a fund was raised amounting to five hundred dollars, entitled the Benevolent Fraternity Fund; and one hundred dollars a year, for five years, were voted to the family of the deceased, and promptly paid.

In 1838, the Anniversary was one of unusual interest. The address on the occasion was delivered by his excellency, Edward Everett, and the poem by Mr. James T. Fields, to a large and brilliant audience.

The first course of lectures before the Association, was delivered this year by J. S. Buckingham, Esq., of England, on Egypt and Palestine, and consisted of sixteen lectures.

The nineteenth Anniversary was celebrated by an address from Hon. Rufus Choate, and a poem by Mr. T. R. Gould.

An extraordinary excitement at the annual election of officers immediately following, and the strenuous exertion of the respective parties to elect their candidates, added upwards of three hundred new members to the ranks, in the short space of one month.

The twentieth Anniversary was celebrated by an address from Hon. Caleb Cushing, and a poem by Mr. E. P. Whipple.

In 1841, the lease of the rooms in School Street having expired, and being ill adapted to the growing wants of the members, the rooms in Amory Hall were obtained, and occupied for the first time on the 20th of September.

The anniversary address this year was delivered by John Neal, Esq., and the poem by Mr. Isaac F. Shepard. In April, 1842, the Boston Marine Society deposited with the Association their extensive cabinet of curiosities, containing about two thousand rare and valuable specimens, which, added to our former collection, forms an appropriate and attractive ornament to the rooms. A most excellent address was delivered on the twenty-first anniversary, by Rev. George Putnam, of Roxbury, and a poem by Mr. George F. Beck.

For several years the project had been repeatedly discussed of establishing a course of public lectures, but had never been adopted, from want of encouragement. In 1842, however, a plan of operations was submitted by Mr. E. C. Cowdin, which after mature deliberation was accepted, and the course subsequently proved triumphantly successful, both as regards the elevated character of the lectures, and the numbers of the audience. The lectures having caused large accessions of members, an increased call for books was produced which it was impossible to satisfy. As soon as this fact became known, Hon. William Sturgis and Hon. Abbott Lawrence made application to Messrs. Amos Lawrence, William Lawrence, Nathan Appleton, John P. Cushing, David Sears, William Appleton, John Bryant and Robert G. Shaw, who, with themselves, immediately subscribed one hundred dollars each for the purchase of books. In July following, the Society for the Diffusion of Useful Knowledge, through their President, Hon. Daniel Webster, also subscribed five hundred dollars for the same object.

These amounts were expended in the purchase of standard works in English literature, and the Library now contains upwards of six thousand volumes, and is undoubtedly one of the best of its size in the country.

The lectures have been continued to the present time, each year, during the winter season, with signal success, and to their establishment may be attributed, more than to any other cause, the present highly prosperous state of the Association.

In 1845, by the advice of Hon. William Sturgis, application was made to the Legislature for an act of incorporation, which was readily obtained. Shortly afterwards a communication was received from Hon. Thomas H. Perkins, inclosing five shares in the Merchants' Exchange (valued at twenty-five hundred dollars), and suggesting the propriety of making efforts to raise a fund for the purpose of erecting a building for the use of the Association. During the year this suggestion was acted upon, and resulted in the receipt of nine thousand two hundred and twenty-five dollars. This amount, although, of course, insufficient to accomplish the object intended, yet when added to the previously invested fund, made a total of sixteen thousand dollars, which authorized us in leasing, on the first of January, 1848, for the term of five years, the elegant and convenient rooms now occupied by the Association in Bromfield Street.

The opening of the rooms, on January 2nd, 1848, was celebrated by an address from Mr. Daniel N. Haskell, and a poem from Mr. S. A. Dix, both members of the Association, whose productions have since been published.

We would briefly add, in conclusion, that our most heartfelt thanks are due to those merchants who, by their timely donations, have enabled us to replenish the library and relieve ourselves from pecuniary embarrassment; to the conductors of the city press, for their liberality in supplying the rooms with their publications; but above all to those past members, who, by their hearty sympathy, and untiring labors in our behalf, sustained the institution through all its vicissitudes, until success rewarded their exertions.
